

New York Institute of Technology Academic Health Center

Choosing a PCP

Our physicians are all board certified.

At New York Institute of Technology Academic Health Centers, we pride ourselves on being a patient centered medical home (PCMH). In fact, we are certified by the National Committee for Quality Assurance as meeting the PCMH requirements. That means we make it a priority to keep your primary care provider informed about referrals, urgent care/emergency visits, medications, and correspondences.

To be able to do this, we need to make sure we have your preferred provider listed as your primary care provider (PCP).

Learn more about our physicians

Choosing a PCP

We understand with two locations and provider availability, that your preferred provider may change over time. We have confidence that our physicians will serve you well. Both locations have the same electronic medical record, so any of us can access your information and chart from either location. You can use whichever location suits your needs at the time.

Feel free to contact us if you have any questions or would like to update your preferred primary provider.